1409 Henderson — Once referred to as the ugliest house in Fairmount.

A jewel discovered

by Sue McLean
Director of Historic Preservation

The really rewarding part of old home restoration is finding something you don't expect. When Contractor Jimmie Johnson heard that his restoration project of the duplex at 1409 Henderson had been called "the ugliest house in Fairmount" by a Fort Worth Realtor, Jimmie saw it as a challenge. Mike McDermott and I could see by the layout and two remaining decorative rafter tails that the house had been built by the same builder as the ones on either side which have lots of decorative elements that make them so unique.

We just knew that when pulling off the concrete siding, they would find something, a window maybe. But we were delightfully surprised when they uncovered a jewel—the remains of a recessed decorative gable element and shadows where original dentil molding used to be. It is hard to imagine someone choosing to cover something like this up and make it ugly. The moment I saw it, I recognized it as being the same as the gable at 1617 Washington. Jimmie chose to box in the gables to hide the destruction of the decorative rafter tails which had been sawed off by a prior owner, but he and his carpenters have replicated the dentil molding and are restoring the recessed gable and its trim, brackets and ledges. He will also be building a tongue and groove wood

What is a receivership?

If an unoccupied property is in violation of several city codes, and if it is owned by someone who is intentionally demolishing it by neglect, the city can follow statute #214.002 of the Local Government Code and have a court appoint the property to a nonprofit organization or an individual with a demonstrated record of rehabilitation. The property can be residential or commercial and does not need any historic designation to qualify.

The receiver of the property would take control of the property, but would not own the property. The receiver must make any repairs necessary to bring the property into compliance with local ordinances, and will make payments necessary for the maintenance and restoration of utilities to the property. Once the property is safe for occupancy, the receiver may rent the property. The rental income is applied against the total cost of rehabbing the property to offset those expenses incurred by the nonprofit organization. However, if the rental income exceeds the cost and expense of rehabilitation, the rehabilitated property may be returned to the original owner, and any net income shall be returned to the original owner.

At the end of one year, if the house is in foreclosure, then the receiver could bid to purchase it. The balance of the money the receiver has already invested in the house is paid to the receiver at the sale of the house. However, the original owner may regain control of the house and the improvements, or a new owner may purchase it. In either case, the receiver will get the amount of their expenses plus 10 percent.

The Fairmount Beat

by Joel Stary, neighborhood patrol officer

I wanted to re-visit calling in suspicious persons, vehicles and activity this month. So many times we see something we know is strange and we dismiss it because our list of things to do that day is consuming our mind. We all have to be willing to stop, think and react when we see something going on that needs to be reported. Remember, your phone call could stop a major crime spree from getting started.

This month I wanted to answer questions about when to call 911, what is considered suspicious behavior, and also give some helpful advice for what to look for and what information to provide when you call 911.

Keep in mind that when you call 911, you will speak with a call taker. The call taker's job is to prioritize the call and pass the information on to a police dispatcher. Once the dispatcher receives the information, a call will be set up and an officer will be sent to the call location. Officer response time will be determined largely by officer availability and based upon the priority level the call was given by the call taker.

Joel Stary

Office: 817.392.3610
Joel.Stary@fortworthgov.org

Now let's discuss 'suspicious behavior'. Anything that seems strange to you would be considered suspicious behavior. Anything that makes you stop and think, "I wonder what he/she is doing," would be considered suspicious behavior. These are the best guidelines to follow and you have to remember that if something looks, feels, smells or sounds strange to you then it is suspicious.

Now that everyone is on the same page with the definition of suspicious behavior, answering the question of when you should call 911 is easy. I want you to call 911 and have an officer come any time you see, smell or hear something suspicious or when you have a feeling that something is suspicious.

Here are some things you need to pay attention to and make the call taker aware of when you call:

For persons—race, age, height, hair description, facial hair, glasses/no glasses, clothing description, shoe description, bags, backpacks, direction of travel, behavior and demeanor if you spoke with the person

For vehicles—use the CYMBAL acronym

C = Color

Y = Year

M = Vehicle make (Ford, Chevrolet, etc.)

B = Body style (van, pick-up, etc.)

A = Additional details (direction of travel, damage, bumper stickers, etc.)

L = License number (even partial plate numbers are helpful)

I know we are all very busy, but take the time to help your community and your neighbors by calling in suspicious activity. Thank you all so much for the help you provide to the police department and your neighbors. Keep up the good work and remember, be safe today and safer tomorrow.

porch with appropriate columns, steps and aprons.

Please drive by and give Jimmie a thumbs-up on his project, as well as our other current restorationists and investors whose time and money is dedicated to making silk purses of our sow's ears with project after project: Diana Koch, Pete Miller, A.D. Sparlin, Patti Randle, Ralph Watterson, John Price and others. And thanks to all those who came before: Phil Bordeleau, Jim Johnson, Joe Frank, Ruth Goolsbee, Helen Rodemeyer, Clayton Holmes and those who restored their own homes.

Once restoration is complete, I intend to make sure that Fort Worth realtor gets a tour and an eye-opener. Let this be a lesson to those who think that eyesore on your block just needs to be bulldozed—so many of Fairmount's most beautiful and now high-valued, restored houses were once "worthless eyesores" too.

A surprise found under concrete siding.

Fairmount food drive by Patti Randle

The Fairmount Neighborhood Association is sponsoring a fall food drive. We will be asking members and other non-member residents to bring non-perishable food to designated locations during October.

All food collected during the drive will be donated to the Tarrant Area Food Bank. According to the TAFB, "Communities, as well as individuals, can be profoundly harmed by chronic under-nourishment and malnutrition among residents. Adults and children distracted by hunger do not perform well on the job or in the classroom and may be sick more often than their peers. All of this can reduce a community's economic productivity and strain its health care and educational systems."

Of the community served by the Tarrant Area Food Bank, 52 percent are having to choose whether to buy food or pay for utilities; 39 percent are forced to choose between paying for medicine/medical care and buying groceries.

Please plan to bring non-perishable items to the Fairmount general meeting Tuesday, Sept. 28. We will let you know of other collection locations in the neighborhood at the meeting and in an upcoming e-mail.

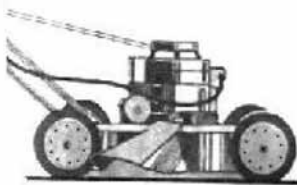

We thank you in advance for your concern and help.

National Night Out in Fairmount

Join us Tuesday, Oct. 5

This is it! One of those big parties Fairmount is famous for.

You are invited to join us for the biggest block party in the city of Fort Worth as we give crime in Fairmount a going away party. The event will be 6-9 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 5 at 1400 College Ave. in the College Avenue Baptist Church parking lot.

National Night Out demonstrates that our neighborhood is organized and fighting back against crime. There will be information available on how to get involved in the Fairmount Citizens on Patrol, the Neighborhood Crime Watch Program and other great information to make your home safe. There will also be a lot of fun for both kids and adults.

This is a covered dish event and we have a lot of hungry police officers to feed so quantity counts. We will supply chicken and tortillas for fajitas but still need all of the sides. Please plan to bring veggies, fruit, desserts, cookies, salad, peppers and onions, or anything else you can think of that goes with fajitas.

This is your big chance to get involved and fight crime in Fairmount and meet some of the great neighbors that live in the Fairmount Historic District. So, turn on those porch lights and let's take a bite out of crime.

This event is sponsored by the Fairmount Citizens on Patrol, Fairmount Neighborhood Association and the Fort Worth Police Department.

Outside Your Old House by Susan Harper

Remember hearing the old rhyme, spring has sprung, fall has fell? My last two lines now go, "summer ain't gone and it's STILL warmer than usual!" The nights dropping into the 70s is helping my garden a little. I hope it's doing yours some good too.

If you haven't been to the Community Garden to plant your fall garden, hie thee down there straightaway! (My apologies to Mr. Shakespeare.) Our growing season is so long that many of the plants that grow in a spring garden will grow in a fall garden along with broccoli, cauliflower, brussel sprouts, lettuces and cabbages that don't always do well in the spring if it gets hot too fast.

I was chastised recently for telling a gardener that Sevin dust sprinkled at the base of squash plants could prevent the squash borer. Since Sevin is acceptable according to my master gardener manual, I was a little confused so I looked it up again. While Sevin dust may have some uses applied to the soil, spraying it as a dust or liquid is deadly to honey bees. And since they are rapidly becoming endangered, as well as being highly beneficial in pollinating fruits and vegetables, I'll say let's find another way to attack the squash bug.

Also: Cool season herbs like dill, fennel, borage and parsley as well as any of the perennial herbs (thyme, rosemary, chives, oregano) can go in the ground.

Perennial beds should be cut back and divided if necessary at this time. Day lilies, iris, phlox and other perennials should be divided and transplanted over the next couple of months.

Roses should be pruned back a third to a half now for an abundant fall display. I've never tried this but I'm doing it stem by stem as the blooms on the bushes fade.

My notes say it's time to spread cornmeal gluten to prevent germination of spring weed seeds. Neil Sperry says there's no proof this works in Texas (although the University of Iowa likes it). Either way, keep it out of garden beds where you have annuals that reseed themselves (like larkspur).

Here's another thought: Imagine yellow daffodils welcoming spring up and down Allen and maybe 8th Avenues in front of the shrubs. There is a source for $34 per 100. Does anybody want to join this project? Let me know if you do.

See you in the garden.

"FORT WORTH'S RENOVATION HEADQUARTERS"

September Yard of the Month

1909 Alston

Congratulations to Fairmount's 10-year resident, Marianna McNeel at 1909 Alston Street for winning Fairmount's Yard of the Month for September.

Marianna's house is a welcoming khaki foursquare that you may have seen on home tour this year. While it is most definitely marvelous, any passersby knows that it's not the only star of the show. Marianna's lawn and gardens are an equally lovely treat for the senses, and provide much curb appeal.

As you approach the house, visitors are immediately welcomed by a lush green lawn of Saint Augustine grass, which is no small feat for Texas summers, and a growing pecan tree. The American flag proudly waves from a generous pathway that leads to wide front steps. The steps are overflowing with Wandering Jew and cascades of vibrant sweet potato vine that the homeowner planted from last summer's tubers.

Tall pink hibiscus trees top the steps and serve as a foundation for smaller pots filled with purple sage, Dusty Miller, geraniums, and moss rose. Along the porch beds Indian Hawthorne and Texas Firebush gracefully introduce 'Guardian Angel' hosta, 'June Bride' caladiums, elephant ears and yellow mums that partner together to paint a masterpiece of color.

A new Japanese maple tree dresses the north side of the setting, a precious gift from the homeowner's thoughtful neighbor, Ted Lovato. Local landscape designer and Fairmount resident, Susan Harper, also planted some 'Weeping' crape myrtle in the beds with small flowering hibiscus plants. Pink, peach and lavender impatiens dot a tapestry of purple verbena, while Oxblood lilies and mixed perennials round out the delightful canvas.

You'll typically find Gus-Gus, the yard cat, enjoying the large front porch. The comfortable outdoor space is bedecked with seating for conversation, bird watching, or a warm cup of coffee. Meanwhile, Marianna's two Siamese cats, Dixie and Kai, usually gaze out from the wide picture window dreaming of the squirrels that got away. Truly, this picturesque scene exudes all the nostalgia of Americana, and attests to why we love living in Fairmount.

Thank you to CC's Touch of Nature for the $35 gift certificate that Marianna will receive.

Community Garden Update by Susan Harper

If you haven't been to the Community Garden site on the Fairmount webpage recently, go look at it now. A lot of photographs have been uploaded and you can see the progress we have made.

On Sept. 11 we had about a dozen kids, another half-dozen moms and director Barbara Hoyle from the RJ Wilson Elementary afterschool program visit the garden. Great kids! We were also fortunate to have Debbie Branch available to teach about composting.

The kids planted veggie seeds and plants, weeded and pulled out nasty Bermuda grass, and added mulch in a bunch of places. All of the kids went home with some wonderfully wiggly worms for their very own compost piles.

With all of that, you'd think I'd have some pictures to show but I got back in the truck at the end of the morning and there sat my camera. I definitely need to get an official photographer.

A number of plot leasers have started to plant their fall crops so things should begin to look lush again soon. The plots are leased until the end of the year. We'll be sending out reminders after Thanksgiving and current holders will have until the end of January to renew their leases. After that, plots will be leased to anyone on the waiting list so if you're interested in having a plot next year and don't already have one, e-mail sharprone@swbell.net or call 817-721-7223.

Get Your Fairmount Curb Numbers

Show your neighborhood pride and help the pizza delivery guy find your house by having the Fairmount logo and your house number painted on your curb.

For only $15, neighborhood resident Ray Feyen will paint your house number in two locations. The cost per address is $15. Although the association has selected a new design for pole-mounted signage, we will keep using the traditional "F" design for curb numbers.
